

Senior Privacy and Data Protection Counsel

Pinterest helps millions of people across the globe discover and do the things they love. We're looking for a seasoned and practical privacy lawyer to join our legal team and lead our privacy and data protection strategies worldwide. We are a small and nimble legal team supporting a growing company, so you will cover a lot of ground.

What you'll do:

- Lead all aspects of our worldwide privacy and data protection strategies to put Pinner's first and move our business forward.
- Provide product, advertising, engineering and other business teams with practical legal advice on privacy and data protection rules in the U.S., Europe and beyond.
- Counsel and advise commercial and business teams on privacy and data protection-related provisions of advertising deals, business partnerships, and complex commercial contracts.
- Advise senior management across different functions on critical privacy issues.
- Develop, implement and maintain internal and external privacy policies, disclosures and consents for compliance, accuracy, and clarity.
- Build and develop systems and processes to support a scalable privacy and data protection program.
- Manage compliance with all applicable privacy and data protection laws and regulations, including the General Data Protection Regulation.
- Assist in security incident responses and internal investigations.
- Collaborate with public policy team to monitor privacy and data-protection related developments and coordinate communications with regulators as necessary.

What we're looking for:

- JD with at least 5-10 years of experience handling privacy and data protection issues in a demanding and innovative legal environment
- World-class expertise in privacy and data protection laws and regulations in the U.S., Europe and beyond, including Privacy Shield and GDPR
- Track record of developing practical solutions to novel problems
- Proven ability to identify, prioritize and resolve issues quickly and independently
- Exceptional project management skills
- Excellent communication skills
- Flexibility to travel as required