Overview

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is looking for the best and brightest to join our team. Our mission is to protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. A career with the SEC offers work that is exciting, challenging and rewarding. You can contribute to securities regulation and enforcement while making a positive difference for the American investing public.

Duties

- Address complex legal questions involving investment adviser and investment company regulation, including drafting, interpreting or applying legislation, orders, or regulations.
- Review and analyze proposals for rules and regulations drafted by other Offices or Divisions of the Commission, particularly from the Division of Investment Management, with emphasis on matters relating to investment adviser and investment company regulation.
- Provide advice on novel questions, including responding to questions on the securities laws, in particular the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and the Investment Company Act of 1940, and other areas of law, such as administrative laws.
- Prepare a variety of written documents to convey information and analysis, including legal memoranda. Also, convey information and analysis orally through briefings, consultations and other presentations.

Qualifications

- All J.D. or LL.B. degree
- Active membership of the bar in good standing in any state, territory of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the commonwealth of Puerto Rico. (Note: proof of bar membership will be required before entry on duty.)
