Overview

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is looking for the best and brightest to join our team. Our mission is to protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. A career with the SEC offers work that is exciting, challenging and rewarding. You can contribute to securities regulation and enforcement while making a positive difference for the American investing public.

Duties

- Carrying out a wide variety of duties relating to the securities markets, critical market infrastructure, and certain market participants, including rulemaking initiatives and special projects. Duties may include review and analysis of rules submitted by self-regulatory organizations (SROs) and work on Commission rulemaking initiatives and special projects relating to the equity, debt, and derivatives securities markets and market infrastructure.
- Responsible for the supervision and management of staff in a wide array of matters relating to the equity, debt, and derivative markets, and market infrastructure serving these markets, and the rule proposals submitted by SROs.
- Advising on policy matters relating to the securities markets and market infrastructure and providing technical assistance in the development and implementation of major SEC initiatives in these areas.
- Supervising, organizing, and designing scope and parameters of projects; defining issues to resolve, the data required, and the parties to be consulted.
- Performing analysis of legal memoranda and reports prepared by the staff; summarizing factual and legal issues involved, brief the Director, Deputy Director, and the Associate Directors with respect thereto; and presenting recommendations as to the proper course of action.

Qualifications

- J.D. or LL.B. degree.
- Active membership of the bar in good standing in any state, territory of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the commonwealth of Puerto Rico. (Note: proof of bar membership will be required before entry on duty.).
