Overview

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is looking for the best and brightest to join our team. Our mission is to protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. A career with the SEC offers work that is exciting, challenging and rewarding. You can contribute to securities regulation and enforcement while making a positive difference for the American investing public.

Duties

- The incumbent serves as an Assistant General Counsel for Appellate Litigation. In cooperation with the Solicitor and Deputy Solicitor, the incumbent leads the conduct of appellate court litigation involving statutes administered by the Commission and in the rendering of legal policy advice to the Commission, the individual Commissioners, and their staffs.
- The incumbent is responsible for supervising the preparation of briefs and other court papers in the United States Supreme Court, courts of appeals, and district courts; the review of records in cases where the Commission received an unfavorable decision, to determine whether to recommend appeal to a higher court; and the preparation of legal interpretations, legal memoranda, and other advice for the Commission with respect to difficult, complex and/or novel legal problems arising in litigation and related contexts. The incumbent also argues, or supervises or assists other attorneys in arguing, cases in the United States courts of appeals and district courts.
- The incumbent carries out supervisory duties, such as performance management, training, awards, and recruitment, and is responsible for keeping employees informed regarding the policies, procedures, and goals of the Commission as they relate to their work on assigned projects. The incumbent manages and directs attorneys within the Office and is responsible for planning, organizing, and supervising work production to meet deadlines and maintain quality. The incumbent has authority to review, accept, amend, or reject work of subordinates. The incumbent plans, organizes, and carries out projects independently, keeping supervisor apprised of the status of those projects and major problems encountered.

Qualifications

- Completion J.D. or LL.B. degree
- Active membership of the bar in good standing in any state, territory of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the commonwealth of Puerto Rico. (Note: proof of bar membership will be required before entry on duty.)
