OPENING PLENARY- Leveraging Your Authenticity to Achieve Breakthrough Career Success

For decades, many Latinx attorneys have operated under the assumption that in order to succeed in the profession, they must assimilate by hiding their cultural identity or other aspects of their identities or family lives, or generally “act like a man” or majority attorneys. Brain science and numerous business studies now tell us that “covering” actually places you at a disadvantage to your peers and is not the best path to job satisfaction, career success, or personal happiness; yet many are still unsure how to be themselves in a profession that seems to favor attorneys who fit the stereotypical attorney profile. This opening plenary session of the 2018 HNBA Annual Convention, dubbed the “Breakthrough Convention,” features successful business/law leaders who have never compromised who they are to get to where they are, and will share tips on how to actually leverage your authenticity to achieve breakthrough career success!

HNBA Latina Commission “Pearls of Wisdom” Pipeline Program - Sponsored by Walmart

In fulfillment of our mission, to strengthen the pipeline of Latinas in the legal profession, the Commission's work not only focuses on practicing Latina attorneys, but on the future generation of Latina leaders. In 2012, the Commission launched its signature pipeline program, Pearls of Wisdom. Since then, this initiative has been replicated at least twice a year across the nation. During each Pearls of Wisdom event, distinguished Latinas across sectors in the law meet with students and discuss their path to success and recommended strategies for breaking the proverbial glass ceiling. Each program is followed by a Q&A and meet & greet sessions where participants can interact individually with Commissioners and the speakers. This important initiative ensures that we touch the lives of law students, as well as elementary, middle and high school students in every city the HNBA visits during its bi-annual conferences.

General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) Bootcamp It's time for American companies to get serious about GDPR compliance. This panel will offer key information and answers to common GDPR questions, offer insight into practical next steps companies should take before upcoming regulatory deadlines, as well as review real-world scenarios that will help companies right-size their GDPR compliance programs.	Rainbow Relations 101: Building Better Bonds with LGBT+ Clients and Coworkers This program is designed to assist lawyers at all levels of experience in building and strengthening effective, and trusting relationships with their LGBT+ clients and coworkers. This program will introduce terminology and definitions used to communicate one's sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, etc, as well as provide lawyers with strategies that they can utilize in initial interviews and all interactions with LGBT clients, which will assist the lawyer in connecting with the client and making them feel at ease. Historically, LGBT issues are under discussed in the Latin community. In fact, there has not been an LGBT basics CLE at the HNBA in over 10 years.	Navigating Bet-the-Company Litigation with Complex Insurance Coverage Issues This panel - which includes seasoned litigators and insurance recovery specialists and a sitting judge - will provide insights on creatively handling complex litigation while maximizing insurance coverage. For companies facing a potentially massive claim or an avalanche of difficult claims, the first thought is "how can we manage this," but the big question quickly becomes "are we insured?" Designed for in-house counsel and litigators, the topics will include creative processes for early resolution, preparing media strategies, formulating discovery/litigation/trial plans, mapping out potential coverage, duty to cooperate, and how to demand and obtain defense and indemnification.	In-House Politics 101: Navigating Internal and External Relationships to Avoid Landmines & Flourish in Your In-House Career. In-house counsel play in crucial role in managing internal clients and outside counsel. A major part of the role is effectively navigating the internal politics that are at play between legal and business partners as they work to resolve issues and push the business forward. The opportunities to advance within an organization may also be impacted by your ability, or lack thereof, to manage relationships amongst in-house colleagues and clients, as well as making the best out of your outside counsel relationships. The CLE will provide tips on managing these relationships from experienced members of the HNBA's Corporate Counsel Division.

GC Roundtable: “Latina Allyship in the #MeToo Era”- Latino/as remain amongst the most statistically underrepresented demographic in the legal profession-- at approximately 4% of all attorneys practicing in the U.S.-- as compared to our total U.S. population size, approximately 18%. One in five women in the United States are Latina, but Latinas comprise less than 2% of U.S. attorneys. Moreover, Latina attorneys are amongst the most marginalized in our profession with the lowest demographic representation rates, highest wage gaps, and lowest advancement rates of any population in the profession. While the reasons for the multi-layered glass ceiling Latinas face are many, these trends are unlikely to change without a coalition of strong male allies. This esteemed panel of industry leaders will discuss how male attorneys can be better allies and help effectuate real change for our Latina colleagues.

In the past, this type of Census data was used for the shameful purpose of sending Japanese Americans to internment camps, and in the present, many Latino groups have denounced the proposed addition of the citizenship question because they fear it will dramatically decrease participation and result in an undercount of Latino citizens and immigrants alike. If the citizenship question remains in the 2020 Census (which is likely), there will be dramatic consequences for redistricting: as HNBA stated in our amicus brief in the Evenwel case decided by the Supreme Court case in 2016, the failure to count immigrants as residents in	Crazy Litigation Strategies That Just Might Work (and Tried-and-True Ones That Might Not) Litigators tend to utilize the same familiar strategies in case after case, but do they really work? OPENING PLENARY - Judicial Diversity Crisis: Prioritizing the Timely Confirmation of Diverse Judges to the Federal Bench

The recent erosion of traditional Senate protocols in the judicial confirmation process have led to an alarming decrease in scrutiny for federal judicial nominees. At the same time, the number of female and minority judicial nominees has dropped dramatically when compared to previous Administrations. Together, these developments signal a disturbing trend towards a federal judiciary that is not in tune with the struggles of an increasingly diverse U.S. population. Panelists will discuss strategies and solutions to move the needle back towards greater federal judicial diversity.
